Presentations

Overview

The Charles L. Spurr symposium is designed for physicians, advanced practice providers, nurses, navigators and other health care professionals dedicated to the field of hematology and oncology in settings across the continuum of care. Attendees will benefit from an interactive learning environment in which renowned faculty will present the latest in evidence-based oncology care.

This in-person meeting will provide didactic presentations and case studies so that participants will gain knowledge about best practice and new advances in treating oncology patients. Participants will return to practice with practical strategies for navigating therapeutic and diagnostic options and care delivery to improve patient outcomes.

Objectives

Upon completion of this program, participants will be better able to:

- Discuss recent developments in diagnosis and management of patients with CLL.
- Examine the clinical practice guidelines for the diagnosis, treatment and follow-up of lung cancer.
- Identify factors influencing treatment selection in metastatic colorectal cancer.
- Discuss the epidemiology and diagnosis of neuroendocrine tumors.
- Explain major cancer policy initiatives in D.C., both from Congress and the Administration.
